SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Luke 9:28-36 The Transfiguration as Liminal Space

Each year at this time we celebrate the feast of the Transfiguration and again listen to the story of how Jesus took Peter, James and John up the mountain to pray, and of how he was transfigured before them. We can only imagine their disorientation and amazement when everyday barriers of space and time are dissolved and Moses and Elijah appear alongside Jesus and seem to be discussing with him his 'departure'. This last detail is missing from Mark's parallel account (Mk 9:2-9) but it does link this event with those occasions when Jesus tries to warn the disciples of his impending suffering, death and resurrection.

While in Israel last year I was frequently struck by the distances Jesus and the disciples travelled, mostly on foot, and often through inhospitable terrain. For example, when reading the transfiguration story I had imagined that Jesus and the disciples might have set out early in the morning and reached the top of the mountain in time for lunch. Having been there, I imagine that it could have taken them two to three days of serious climbing – not to conquer the mountain, but so that they might pray and be shown something!

So what might we, as individuals and as a community at Holy Covenant, be being 'shown' right now? It is probably the place of prayer to ask the question rather than feel we have definitive answers.

Last week Anne McDowell took up the image of liminal or threshold space in her prayers. Liminal experiences, we are told by writers like Richard Rohr, may occur when the structures of ordinary life are disrupted. Something happens – we lose a relationship, a job, our health (you can add to the list). Depending on the significance of the loss, we might feel the bottom has fallen out of our world. Like Humpty Dumpty we might be in pieces waiting to be put back together again. These are liminal experiences that we haven't chosen. But they do have the potential to transform us.

The Transfiguration belongs to another category of liminal space where we choose to withdraw for prayer or meditation, make a retreat or go on pilgrimage. Typically there are three stages to the process: the separation from daily life or business-as-usual as Rohr likes to put it; the middle phase; and finally the return to everyday responsibilities. Hopefully we return with renewed energy and sense of purpose, having a better idea of what God is asking of us.

In practice of course there is an overlap between the two. Sometimes life's challenges thrust us into one space and we choose to transform it into the other more intentional space where we draw apart to pray and try to make sense of (wait to be shown the way through) what is happening to us and to others in our world. And we don't have to do it alone.

Children Removed from their Parents by Forced Adoption or Removal

This week I met a man who came to St John's Care for assistance with paying the fee for a form he needed to lodge with NSW Birth Deaths and Marriages. This was the final step in what has been for him a very long and difficult process to gain access to a daughter who was forcibly removed from him at birth.

John seemed to me to be a lovely gentle Aboriginal man in his mid 50s. He recounted a story whereby his daughter was removed from him at birth and his name never included on her birth certificate. At the time he was asked to sign a document which he thought was to acknowledge him as the father, but was actually an adoption consent form. It has taken him some considerable time and a great deal of paperwork and a DNA test, to find his daughter in the hope of being reunited, some 30 years later. While they haven't met yet, his daughter has been made aware that he exists and that he is in the process of gaining approval to see her.

This week he will post off the application to have him included on her birth certificate and to officially recognize him as her father for the very first time, which will open the way for a reunion. To say that he was excited about the prospect is a huge understatement. It was my great privilege to meet John and to be able to assist him in a small way in being reunited with his daughter. I asked him to keep in touch and he said he would bring her in to see us. It brings a tear to my eye as I write this. It will be my very great honour should he decide to bring her in.

No doubt we would all be aware of "The Stolen Generations", the generations of Aboriginal children taken away from their families by governments, churches and welfare bodies to be brought up in institutions or fostered out to white families. This ceased to be official government policy in Australia in 1969. However, still into the 80's we find a person who seems to have been the victim of a forced adoption and I can see that John has suffered in the same way that so many Indigenous Australians have suffered in the past.

I pray that his reunion with his daughter is swift and that it brings all the joy that a father and daughter relationship can bring.

Wish list: pasta, biscuits, milk (long life), pasta sauce

CASSEROLE BANK.

Some of you will know that we have a casserole bank from which we deliver casseroles to people in a time of crisis or need. It is coordinated by the Holistic Care Nursing Ministry and at the moment we have 24 cooks on the books. If you'd like to join the team, please contact the HCNM on nurse@holycovenant.org.au or phone Anne Ranse 0439 139209 HCNM can provide you with suitable disposable containers .

Storage of the casseroles in the freezer at church is limited and we need to be as efficient with the available space as possible. To achieve this it would be helpful (if you don't currently do this) to provide the meals in flat, takeaway type, food containers, unless it is soup. HCNM has a supply of clear plastic disposable food containers including some round ones for soups and can provide up to six at any one time for you to use and will resupply when required. These can be picked up from the HCN office on Monday mornings or at church. Your initial supply will be ready to be picked up at church on the first and second Sundays in February.

With thanks, Archdeacon Anne Ranse

Education for Ministry is both theological discussion and theological reflection in a group learning community. It has been running in the parish for over ten years and we are coming into our second year in the revised EFM format and the second year of our new parish group. If you are interested in learning more about EFM and thinking you would like to join us please speak to Merri Bacon 6251 1110 or Nic Platt 6251 6170

LENTEN STUDY

Lenten Book Series: The Rev'd Canon Dr Timothy Gaden's Walking Humbly with God

To walk humbly with God, loving mercy and doing justice (Micah 6:8) has long been regarded as the heart of the Christian journey. This series explores different aspects of this theme in light of the lectionary readings for Lent.

WALKING HUMBLY WITH GOD LENTEN STUDY BEGINS THIS FRIDAY 12TH. STUDY BOOKS AVAILABLE NOW AT THE PARISH OFFICE OR FROM GLENYS @ $10. HOMEWORK BEGINS FROM NOW TO BE READY FOR FRIDAY

When: Friday mornings 10.30- 12, 12 February – 18 March in Rainbow Centre, followed by an optional BYO lunch. Facilitator: Glenys Wimmer.

Lenten Bible Study: The Book of Acts

This series will explore the literary, historical, religious and theological roots of this foundational text, as well as its implications for our contemporary faith journeys.

When: Thursday evenings, 7.30-9pm, 11 February – 17 March in Rainbow Centre (purple room). Facilitator: Rev. Dr John Painter.

The Invitation of Wilderness

Wilderness is both a geographic space and a source of metaphor in the unfolding biblical narrative. It is also a key image in Lent. Through reflection on biblical and other writings and visual images, this series invites us to recognise those wilderness or liminal spaces in our lives – to see not only the challenge but also the gift of this space for us as individuals and as a community. There will be opportunity for quiet reflection and sharing.

When: Sunday afternoons. 3-5pm, 14 February – 20 March in the Rainbow Centre. Facilitator: Frances MacKay.

SUNDAY ROSTER DUTY

With the departure of two of our students there are some vacancies on the Sunday Rosters. If you would like to be involved in our Worship, we need people to do:

- the Ministry of the Word at both Services
- Intercessions at both Services and
- help with Communion at 10am.
