SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Luke 4:1-13 Facing our Demons

*God help us to find our confession;
The truth within us which is hidden from our mind;
The beauty or the ugliness we see elsewhere
But never in ourselves.* (Michael Leunig)

The profound question love poses is, 'Can you face your life as it is; can you look at all the pain and darkness as well as the power and light in the human soul, and still say yes?' (John Welwood)

Lent is an invitation to face reality. The question is: How much reality do we want to face? According to TS Eliot, not much: 'Human kind cannot bear very much reality'. Daniel O'Leary (Already Within: Divining the Hidden Spring) doesn't pull any punches when he suggests:

The question that Lent, the season of truth, asks is: 'How much reality about yourself can you bear? Are you aware of your ambiguous motives, your rampant ego, your inner envy, your urge to power? Most of us try to live the Christian life without ever entering those raw and searing cellars of our own unbearable darkness.

If all this sounds very unappealing and too much like hard work, John Welwood reminds us that it is Love (the capitalisation is mine!) that issues the invitation, and Leunig suggests that we will find beauty as well as ugliness. At the end of the prayer whose opening lines are quoted in the epigraph, Leunig also reminds us why we need to do this:

That we may carry our cross wisely
And bring harmony into our life and our world.

We do it for ourselves and for others. Richard Rohr reminds us that if we don't face our own pain we pass it on.

In today's gospel we hear how 'Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness' where he was tempted by the devil and ministered to by angels (Matthew and Mark refer to the angels). It is in the wilderness that Jesus' sense of who he is – the identity conferred at his recent baptism as 'the beloved son' – and what this might mean, is tested. Notice how each of the temptations is prefaced by 'If you are the Son of God, ...' – the implication seemingly is to prove it by different stunts. But Jesus realizes that God is to be trusted not put to the test. (That raises another fascinating question, but there is alas no room for that today.)

Are we willing to join Jesus in that liminal space of testing and (trans)formation? And what might that mean for us, individually and as a community?

“For those who’ve come across the seas, we’ve boundless plains to share, with courage let us all combine, to Advance Australia fair”

On Sunday just gone I was formally commissioned and welcomed by the Parish into the role of Director of St John’s Care. In the notices I was described as having a “strong commitment to social justice and as part of the commissioning I agreed to “undertake my tasks wholeheartedly, faithfully and alive to the joy that Christian service brings”. In the Ash Wednesday service this morning we prayed for strength to oppose oppression, injustice and wrong.

This week this brings me to the issue of how we treat asylum seekers in this country and in this city.

Imagine my interest and excitement last week when my high school mate, Peter Catt, the Dean of the Anglican Cathedral in Brisbane, took a stand on the issue by offering the Cathedral as a place of sanctuary, following the High Court ruling which paved the way for 267 people to be returned to Nauru.

On Friday I met a young man who had suffered prolonged torture in Iran. As a result, he suffers from a range of conditions, including an inability to sleep, which require regular medication and is currently, along with his partner, essentially homeless in the Canberra area. He had just been advised that his application for refugee status had been refused. You will remember that I wrote some time ago that this generally means that they need to leave the country within 90 days during which time they are not allowed to work and receive no benefits. I have no information about why this decision was made, but what I did have was a person sitting in front of me asking for compassion and help, which I gladly gave.

As you may know St John’s Care has a formal memorandum of understanding with Companion House to assist their clients, most of whom are asylum seekers and refugees. We are also a member of a committee that meets regularly to discuss the plight of Asylum Seekers without Income.

On Monday this week I attended the peaceful rally organized by Get Up in the grounds here at St John’s to support a growing “Let them Stay” campaign.

I cannot remain silent in the face of oppression, injustice and wrong. I recently swore an oath to oppose and speak out against domestic violence and I now commit to opposing the status quo in how we treat asylum seekers.

Wish list: pasta sauce, milk (long life), cereal

Help for family remaining in Africa

Over the past 10 years, Holy Covenant's 'Community Support for Refugees' group has been supporting an extended family from Africa. The family of five brothers and sisters have all married and now have young families of their own. They have settled into Canberra well. However, like all refugees, they carry a burden. That is, the knowledge that there are family members left behind in Africa still living in poverty, uncertainty and some in outright danger. We have exhausted all avenues for family reunion and so our friends are coming to terms with how best they can support their family from afar. Each month they send back as much money as they can spare. This is a significant burden for them but seems necessary to ease the guilt they carry for being the fortunate ones to have found a peaceful and safe life.

One of the ways our friends support their families remaining in Africa is to send them clothing, mobile phones, spectacles. Periodically, they are able to buy space on a shipping container. They have asked if we at Holy Covenant could support them in collecting clothing, shoes and socks. The clothing can be any size from baby to child to adult, male and female. The clothing should have reasonable life left and be clean. For the next month, there will be a clothes basket left at the back of the church (behind the multi-media control table). Furniture and tools are also gratefully received but would need to be delivered to the collection point in Scullin. This is another small way we can show our love and support for our friends. We thank you for your help.

LENTEN STUDY

Lenten Book Series: The Rev'd Canon Dr Timothy Gaden's Walking Humbly with God

To walk humbly with God, loving mercy and doing justice (Micah 6:8) has long been regarded as the heart of the Christian journey. This series explores different aspects of this theme in light of the lectionary readings for Lent.

When: Friday mornings 10.30- 12, 12 February – 18 March in Rainbow Centre, followed by an optional BYO lunch. Facilitator: Glenys Wimmer.

Lenten Bible Study: The Book of Acts

This series will explore the literary, historical, religious and theological roots of this foundational text, as well as its implications for our contemporary faith journeys.

When: Thursday evenings, 7.30-9pm, 11 February – 17 March in Rainbow Centre (purple room). Facilitator: Rev. Dr John Painter.

The Invitation of Wilderness

Wilderness is both a geographic space and a source of metaphor in the unfolding biblical narrative. It is also a key image in Lent. Through reflection on biblical and other writings and visual images, this series invites us to recognise those wilderness or liminal spaces in our lives – to see not only the challenge but also the gift of this space for us as individuals and as a community. There will be opportunity for quiet reflection and sharing.

When: Sunday afternoons. 3-5pm, 14 February – 20 March in the Rainbow Centre. Facilitator: Frances MacKay.

The Daniels family is most grateful to all those whose friendship and prayers supported Beryl through her illness and who assisted at the Service of Thanksgiving for her last Tuesday in any way. Thank you.
