SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Luke 9:51-62. The road less travelled

'When the days drew near for him to be taken up, he sets his face to go to Jerusalem.' (Lk 9:51) The first part of the sentence implies a sense of destiny reminiscent of those times in the gospels where Jesus says that his time has not yet come. Now his time has come, or at least is drawing near, and he sets his face to go to Jerusalem. In those words we perceive his resolution to fulfil his destiny.

There are three routes Jesus could have taken in making the journey from the Galilee region to Jerusalem: the well-made and safe coastal road (Via Maris) built by the Romans; the fairly safe route following the Jordan river through the valley; and lastly the more hazardous route through more challenging highland terrain, including Samaria. Last week I wrote about Jesus taking his disciples beyond their comfort zone into gentile territory. This week the crash course in growing their capacity for inclusiveness continues. Samaritans were despised by Jews – seen as beyond the pale – a prejudice that Jesus challenges in the story of the woman at the well, and again in making a Samaritan the hero of one of his most memorable parables.

Yes Jesus could have taken them by another way, but he didn't. And the Samaritans refused to receive him anyway, 'because his face was set towards Jerusalem.' There's that phrase again. Perhaps it provides a link between the two parts of today's reading. Does it shed light on Jesus' concluding comment: 'No one who puts a hand to the plough and looks back is fit for the kingdom of God'? Maybe he is reminding himself as well as his disciples, as he contemplates what lies in wait for him in Jerusalem.

'Let the dead bury their own dead,' he says to the would-be follower who wishes to first bury his father. I don't believe this passage is advocating that we don't fulfil our responsibilities to family and community. But here as elsewhere he is reminding them of the priority of their commitment to the kingdom of God, and that they and we belong to a much larger story than we often realise.

When he says that 'the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head', I am reminded of the verse in Hebrews that says, 'Here we have no continuing city.' To be a follower of Jesus is to be always on the move, spiritually speaking, and sometimes we might wish we had come by another way. Perhaps we might be in that place at the moment. What might be the invitation in this? Perhaps we can remember a time when we were in such a place, only to be surprised by the blessing or help that came our way once we consented to be present to life as it was.

Let's Cure Violence

Last month I wrote about a domestic violence forum I was involved in organising called "For Such a Time as This" which was held last Saturday at the Australian Centre for Christianity and Culture in Barton. Unfortunately, I was unable to attend, however, one of the other organisers described its success as follows: "The Spirit's presence was palpable at times. First responders and service providers were outstanding and there was a deep feeling of unity and goodwill such that I haven't experienced in a long time. Susanna's [Pain] liturgy was beautiful. I would say it was a time of real church, out there walking with the world."

You may also remember that I mentioned recently about our Youth Outreach Worker, Zack Bryers, submitting an application for a Churchill Fellowship to enable him to undertake a study tour of sites in the USA and South America in 2017. I am pleased to advise that he was invited to an interview with the ACT panel consisting of a 5-minute presentation and 15 minutes of questions.

Yesterday we were very excited to hear that he has been included in the Regional List that will now be considered as part of the National List by the Board of the Churchill Trust when it meets in Canberra for assessment at national level.

Zack aims to research an approach to addressing violence called "Cure Violence" which has been successfully replicated dozens of times around the world. "The Cure Violence Model is a public health approach to violence prevention that understands violence as a learned behavior that can be prevented using disease control methods. It adapts methods used to stop the transmission of some of the deadliest diseases, including AIDS, cholera, and tuberculosis. These disease control methods work by 1) interrupting transmission of the disease, 2) reducing the risk of the highest risk, and 3) changing community norms."

Should Zack's application be successful at the national level, his plan is to spend 2 weeks in 2017 in each of Chicago, Baltimore, Detroit and Rio De Janeiro, with workers who have successfully implemented the approach.

His research to date suggests that this approach could be successfully implemented in Australia and he hopes that this will be the ultimate outcome of the research. We wish him well and will keep you all informed when a decision is made in November.

I CAN'T WAIT TO TELL YOU...

that the holistic care nursing program has received funding from the Shakespeare Foundation via the diocese for another year. We are so blessed!

As a result this means that not only can I reduce my workload but we can employ a person in an overall coordination role to ensure that our clients will continue to receive the assistance they need through this amazing ministry.

If you think this might be a job for you read on!

Archdeacon Anne

Are you looking for some part time work?

The Holistic Care Nursing program is seeking a coordinator to take over the overall management of the program. The ideal person will have a background in nursing, physiotherapy or community services who is well organised, fit and passionate about keeping people in their homes, caring about isolated people and helping those suffering difficulties to get back on their feet. You will be responsible for working with other agencies and volunteers from within the parish. The position is funded for up to 25 hours per week.

If this interests you and you would like more information please contact Anne Ranse by phone on 0439 139 209 or email nurse@holycovenant.org.au

Thought for the Day

Wisdom tends to grow in proportion to one's awareness of one's ignorance .

- Anthony de Mello

Prayer for choosing an incumbent

Bountiful God,
give to this parish a faithful pastor
who will faithfully speak your word
and minister your sacraments;
an encourager who will equip your people for ministry and enable us to fulfil our calling.
Give to those who will choose, wisdom, discernment and patience,
and to us give warm and generous hearts,
for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen.

Parish Council News from this week's meeting...

- Several council members attended Creating Safe Ministries awareness and refresher workshops in late May.
- Welcoming rosters of Parish Council members are in operation; Phyl Holmes briefed Council on how we can help new people feel welcome.
- The Treasurer reported that the parish financial situation is sound, even though offerings are a little down on last year and we have several new appointments since the beginning of 2016 - Youth Workers, Children's Worker and Hon. Deacon, Pastoral Care Coordinator. A key reason is that clergy costs, notably housing, are lower during our period without a long term Rector. Fund raising, e.g. at the Parish Dinner next month and the Plant Sale and mini-fete in November will be important as we move through the year.
- There is welcome news that funding will be received for the Holistic Care Nursing Program to enable appointment of a coordinator who will work with Archdeacon Anne Ranse; and Covenant Care has renewed financial support. Congratulations on both counts! A Holistic Care Nursing Management Committee has been formed which will be responsible to Parish Council for the HCN Program.
- Follow-up is to take place on a number of Work Health and Safety matters, including transporting people to the church, and incidents that might have caused injury. We would also like to know who in our congregations holds a current certified first aid qualification - if you do, please let the Office Administrator (Libby Warren) know.
- The Resources Coordination Team is focusing on minor repairs such as to the sliding doors in the Worship Centre, and more suitable shelving for the prayer and hymn books. Some other more significant capital and maintenance items are being investigated and costed.
- Reports were received from all our very active teams - noting e.g. a great service and activities involving children and families last Sunday. We wished our Youth a wonderful camp this weekend, not too cold or wet!

Work Health and Safety

All ministry leaders, staff and any other person who has any Parish work health and safety concerns are to report their concerns in writing to the Safety Team:

Mel Browning, George Gerrity & Joh Sheehan.

A hard copy of the policy is held in the office.

SAFETY MATTERS

Do you hold a current first aid certificate?

We would like to know who in our congregations holds a current certified first aid qualification - if you do, please advise Libby in the Office.
