SUNDAY 6 JUNE 2021 SECOND SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

WHO WILL I SERVE?

The readings this week leave me with a recurring question: Who will I serve? In 1 Samuel 8, the crowd demand 'Give us a king to lead us', so that the king can 'fight our battles'. We know how this story ends, so we can so easily become smug at their foolishness. Why do they need a king when Samuel tells them that have the Lord!

But let us not be swift to condemn past stupidities. We live in a world today where many of us are all too willing to give extra powers to leaders or governments to fight our battles whether it be to protect us from crime, stop the boats, save us from China, or whatever it is that we fear. Many leaders tap into this fear for their own ends and use the powers they are given, or that they acquire, to serve themselves rather than to serve others.

We no longer have kings to rule over us, but some of those in authority are all too willing to take more than their fair share of the modern-day equivalent of "best of your fields and vineyards and olive groves" as their recompense for assuaging our fears. In this bargain we may vote for leaders who promise to 'fix' the problems we most fear while ignoring their questionable actions and behaviours so long as we are not personally inconvenienced. Is that so different to what the Israelites were doing when they demanded to have their own kings to keep them 'safe'?

Psalm 138 offers another path. Who needs a king when we have a loving and faithful God? But this faith in something more than what it is front of us, or the voting booth, is easier said than done. When the world appears to be going to hell perhaps the last place we turn to is heaven! We may even blame God for our own or the world's troubles. For without hope or faith, or faith in the material, how can we believe in a future?

Mark's Gospel (Mark 3: 20-25) holds the key as to where we should turn. In Jesus' words; "Whoever does God's will is my brother and sister and mother." He points us to a spiritual, not a material, power and for each of us to do what is right for ourselves, for others, and the world around us. There is no Caesar, Great Leader, King, Führer or President that we need to look to or to save us. We need look no further than the Comforter (John 14), the Holy Spirit to guide us.

So what is it we should do? First and foremost, be sure to know that we are loved, and that our love must be shared with others. Be aware that we are not alone and we need to be part of, and to work together, in community. Be careful to look to the spiritual for inspiration so that 'Therefore we do not lose heart' (2 Corinthians 4:16) because faith in earthly leaders and their promises frequently disappoints. But, in the end, all of us are going to have to serve somebody...

Gotta Serve Somebody (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wC10VWDTzmU>)

Who will you serve?

STORIES FROM THE HEART

Susan Joy's book was launched at an event held at the Australian Centre for Christianity and Culture. Reflections about Susan Joy's life and work were shared by colleagues, friends and family. This week, her husband Maurice Neville described his journey preparing Susan Joy's stories for publication. Reflections from the day will feature over the next few weeks.

I am Maurice Neville, Susan Joy's husband of almost thirty years, and I compiled and edited her writings and brought them to publication.

I'll begin by acknowledging that we meet today on the land of the Ngunnawal and Ngambri peoples, the traditional custodians of the Canberra and ACT region, and by recognising their continuous connection to culture, community and Country.

A few months after Susan Joy passed away, I found a folder of her writings with a note taped to the cover describing them as "my voice, on faith and how to live as a person of faith in this world". I subsequently found many more writings, in various places, and I realised how remarkably consistent they were in purpose, form, and style. I realised that together they could be a book. The result is a collection of more than 80 reflections, each oriented around 'stories' and each focussed on a specific aspect of faith life. Every reflection is accompanied by a directly-related prayer. Together, the reflections show how a life of faith is one of joy and compassion, as gifts from God for how we can live, and live with others, to become the people God knows we can be.

Susan Joy had a love of 'story'. She believed that 'story' was a powerful means for understanding ourselves, our experiences, and our relationship with God. The book's stories are drawn from the Bible, but also from well beyond, such as ordinary moments of life or from literature, especially children's books, and from movies and even sport and politics. So, alongside Bible figures, great and otherwise, we hear too about Charlie Brown and friends, Indiana Jones, Mary Poppins, Lucy and Aslan from the Narnia books, a fourth wise man, and a bird who shares bread with a homeless person, among many many others!

Susan Joy was a 5-year educated primary and early childhood teacher. She later completed training as a Lifeline Crisis Counsellor, and in Clinical Pastoral Education. She completed a Master of Ministry degree and a Diploma of Anglican Orders at St Mark's National Theological Centre. In 2009 she was ordained into the permanent diaconate of the Diocese of Canberra and Goulburn. She was an accomplished worship leader. She was an avid reader. She had a passion for creativity and colour. She was a mother of three.

Susan Joy writes from her extensive experience as a school chaplain, as a hospital and hospice pastoral carer, as a teacher of Religious and Values Education, and as a children's and family minister. She was a humble person of quiet wisdom and calm presence, whose gift was to come alongside people right where they were in life, to listen, to care, and when possible, to bring peace, strength, and guidance.

In this book, she constantly encourages us to reflect on our own life stories and how they relates to others' stories, to Christ's story, and to God's great story for the world. Through this book her voice on faith can be heard, and her ministry to come alongside and to care for people ... continues.

Speaking as a publishing academic, I can tell you that are some words that you long to hear when others review or read and respond to your work. I'll pick just three: 'insightful', 'elegant', and 'important'. OK, I am biased, and Joy and Compassion is NOT an academic text, it is a book for everyone, BUT to me it IS all those. It is full of insights on the characters and circumstances of life and faith, it shows throughout her gift for writing that is deeply thoughtful and crafted, but still kind and clear and highly accessible, and it is important because it seeks no less than to support readers in their faith, in how to live and how to be, as God hopes for them, with joy and with compassion.

BUT, more than those three words, it is a beautiful book. That is the word people most commonly use when they describe the book to me. It is physically beautiful - thank you to Coventry Press! - and it shows throughout a beautiful voice and heart. Again, thank you for being here to launch and celebrate Susan Joy's book.

Maurice Neville

YOUR OFFERTORIES

Generosity is what allows churches to move and grow. In 2020, regulars were encouraged to make their offertory through direct credit facilities with their banks. It made a big difference for us as giving often falls behind expenses when people go away over winter for weeks at a time. We'd encourage regulars to keep using direct credit so that we can avoid the stress of falling behind.

While many things are back to normal, COVID restrictions mean that we are still unable to pass the offertory plate around the congregation during the service. The plate is still available on the table at the rear of the church. Any who wishes to use offertory envelopes is welcome to do so. New boxes of envelopes are available if you wish to use this method of giving. Don't worry as they have last year's dates printed on them. We figured it was better to reuse and recycle!

CONCERN FOR POTENTIAL LOSS OF ELECTRICITY

Earlier this month I looked out of the St John's Care Centre window and saw a woman driving into the carpark in her old car - which had obvious signs of unrepaired damage all over it. She opened the car door slowly, stepped out and walked towards our Centre. I opened the door and greeted the woman, she was polite, but very reserved.

Jolene (not her real name) and I sat down for a chat and the deeper she went into her story, the more emotional pain could be seen on her face.

Some years ago, Jolene lost her two children to an accident she said that she never fully recovered from. As a result of this, she still suffers immense depression and PTSD. Jolene explained that due to her mental illness she can't work and the complex treatment medications she has are expensive.

On top of that difficulty, Jolene started to fall behind on her electricity bill, which was close to $950 and currently overdue. Disconnection notices started to arrive in the mail.

Huge worries were 'paralysing' her day in day out, she stopped opening her mail as she feared reading the notices and seeing debts piling up. Jolene was deeply worried about her electricity supply being cut off and went into 'shut down from the world' mode.

It was her friend who was a client of St John's Care who insisted Jolene come to our Centre. Luckily, she did.

During her visit, we provided her with plenty of fresh vegetables and fruit, as well as some long life food to last her a few weeks.

We called Care Financial and introduced Jolene to their amazing caring team who were able to book an appointment for Jolene to see them the next day. We paid for half of her overdue electricity bill to take some of the burden off her shoulders and to give her some hope.

Jolene could not believe what was happening! She didn't say much, she just started crying and her body language showed her appreciation. Joy and relief from worries made her speechless.

A couple of weeks later, I made a follow up phone call to Jolene and it was as if I were speaking to a different person. She was over the moon about the outcomes of St John's Care support and raved about how Care Financial were able to negotiate a payment plan with her electricity provider to best suit Jolene's capacity to pay it off.

She told me that the day she came into SJC was her lucky day, she now feels more hopeful and a little more optimistic about the future. She said there are still difficulties she needs to address, but at least she has electricity in her flat and the bills are less of a worry.

I would like to thank St John's Care donors for their generous help. It makes a real difference to peoples' lives.

Kind regards,

Nailia, SJC Case Manager

RECONCILIATION

This is my Son the Beloved: listen to him. Mark 9:7

Tjukarpa palya Jesunya is the name on the New Testament I have in the language of the Pitjantjatjara people of the far north west of South Australia. In English it translates: This man Jesus is good.

The ancient peoples of that area still speak their language and they have added new words and actions that they value from our language, words like Jesus. Their timeless stories of creation blend with ours and fit in likeness and they have a very deep and rich spirituality. For them and for us surely the name of Jesus must be a point of reconciliation.

I like this line from the Prayer for Reconciliation from APBA: Lord God, bring us together as one, different in culture, but given new life in Jesus Christ, together as your body, your church, your people.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

Anne, servant of the Lord

Lord God, bring us together as one

FROM THE TREASURER

Offerings in May (direct credit and plate) were $20,200 – a little above budget, but total income was below budget mainly owing to reduced fee income from hiring our facilities. We are in discussion with two new groups who are interested in using the Worship and Rainbow Centres, and parish council has been reviewing the current hiring arrangements.

We rely on the parish community's regular offerings for 80% of our income. We are pleased to advise that in the five months to the end of May offerings were close to budget. We thank you all for your faithful financial stewardship.

Expenses in May were $23,250 which was close to budget. Approximately 65% of our expenses are salaries and associated allowances.
